

Feb. 26, 2026

The National Procurement Institute (NPI) is proud to once again proclaim Wednesday, March 11, 2026, as Procurement Professionals' Day.

This day is dedicated to recognizing the vital role procurement professionals play across government, business, and industry. Procurement professionals drive efficiency, uphold fairness and transparency, strengthen supplier relationships, and steward billions of dollars in purchasing power across the United States and Canada.

As gatekeepers of the competitive process, procurement professionals help build public trust while delivering meaningful value to the organizations and communities they serve.

NPI encourages all members to join us in recognizing and celebrating the procurement professionals within their organizations on Procurement Professionals' Day.
